The screenshot shows the Creative Commons website in a Mozilla Firefox browser window. The browser's address bar displays the URL <http://creativecommons.org/>. The page features the Creative Commons logo and navigation links for visit ccMixer, visit science Commons, visit iCommons, and Support the Commons. A dropdown menu for "Worldwide" is set to "Select a jurisdiction". The main heading reads "Enabling the legal sharing and reuse of cultural, educational, and scientific works." Below this, there are four categories of content: Audio (music, sounds, speeches...), Images (photos, illustrations, designs...), Video (movies, animations, footage...), and Text (books, blogs, essays...). Two large icons illustrate the process: "Find" (Music, photos, and more) and "Publish" (Your stuff, safely and legally). A Learn more... link is provided. At the bottom, a paragraph states: "Creative Commons licenses provide a flexible range of protections and freedoms for authors, artists, and educators.
